Los Angeles – August 1, 2017

The Board of Directors of Woodcraft Rangers, a 95-year-old Greater Los Angeles Area youth development organization, has accepted the resignation of their Chief Executive Officer Chris Johnson, effective July 7, 2017.

“It has been a great honor for me to serve as CEO,” Johnson said. “I have greatly appreciated the opportunity to work with so many dedicated board members and staff over the past five years. We’ve added schools, enlarged the Board, and stabilized funding which is a testament to their great efforts.” Johnson added that he would announce his plans for the future next month.

The Woodcraft Rangers Board of Directors, under President Wayne Mack, has engaged an interim CEO, John Schauweker, and will form a transition team to guide the search for a replacement.

“We want to thank Chris for his service and wish him well in his future endeavors. Under his leadership we now have a Strategic Plan, celebrated many successes, and are on solid financial footing. We also look forward to continuing Woodcraft Rangers’ long tradition of excellent leadership,” Mack said. “Woodcraft Rangers is a strong and vibrant organization and we know well the valuable contribution it makes on behalf of Los Angeles youth.”

About Woodcraft Rangers

Woodcraft Rangers is a 501(c)(3) organization whose mission is guiding young people as they explore pathways to purposeful lives. Incorporated in 1922, Woodcraft Rangers currently operates Nvision afterschool programs at public schools throughout Los Angeles County. Last year the agency served over 13,000 students aged 6 to 18. Woodcraft Rangers programs offer academics, sports and unique courses based on input from students and their families, including web design, fashion, photography, skateboarding, robotics, magazine publishing and multi-media production. Nvision programs help improve academic performance, enhance social skills and promote healthy behaviors. The agency is headquartered at 340 E 2nd Street, Suite 200 in Los Angeles, 90012
